Notice on an Action for Compensatory Damages Filed against Toshiba

TOKYO—Toshiba Corporation (TOKYO: 6502) (the "Company") hereby gives notice that it was served yesterday with a further action for compensatory damages in relation to the accounting issue ("the Action").

In addition, the Company also herewith gives notification, in 2. below, of the status of the other actions for compensatory damages filed against the Company in Japan in relation to the accounting issue.

1. Outline of the Action

The Action against the Company was filed with the Tokyo District Court by six individuals on February 8, 2018, seeking compensatory damages in the amount of 38,554,560 yen, on the grounds of damages incurred due to the Company's inappropriate accounting. The Company was served with the complaint yesterday.

The Company will handle the matter appropriately after taking into account the plaintiffs' assertions in the Action. As the amount of compensatory damages sought in the action is limited, the Company has not revised the FY2017 forecast that it announced on February 14, 2018.

2. Status of the other actions for compensatory damages in Japan The Company provides regular updates on actions filed in Japan seeking compensatory damages in relation to the accounting issue. Prior to today, the most recent update was made on January 26, 2018, in "Notice on an Action for Compensatory Damages Filed Against Toshiba." The outline of each of these actions is as described in the table attached below. As of today, the Company has been served with 36 complaints in all, and the total amount sought in these actions is approximately 174.0 billion yen.
